Strolling along Paseo de Gracia and after contemplating Casa Batlló, we enter a listed building dating from 1915 and known as La Casa Bonet; a classic of Barcelona.

Just by passing through the building's doorway we can enter the atmosphere of the beginning of the century and once inside this magnificent property we can delight in its handcrafted ceilings finished with gold leaf, ceilings of more than 4 metres, original parquet floors and its large windows. The floor just above the emblematic Paseo de Gracia and the views from the back of the property overlook quiet gardens to enjoy absolute tranquillity. Currently the property is distributed in several rooms, having as the most significant space, the three generously sized living rooms overlooking the main street and in the back three other large rooms with gallery and showcases. As a particular detail of this very special house we find a small family chapel that has been part of the family legacy since the beginning of the century. An exclusive location in the heart of Paseo de Gracia, the neuralgic and commercial centre where to be part of the history of Barcelona.
