Designed by architect Antonio Farrés Aymerich, this building forms part of a collection of emblematic properties from Madrid's early 20th-century Modernist movement.

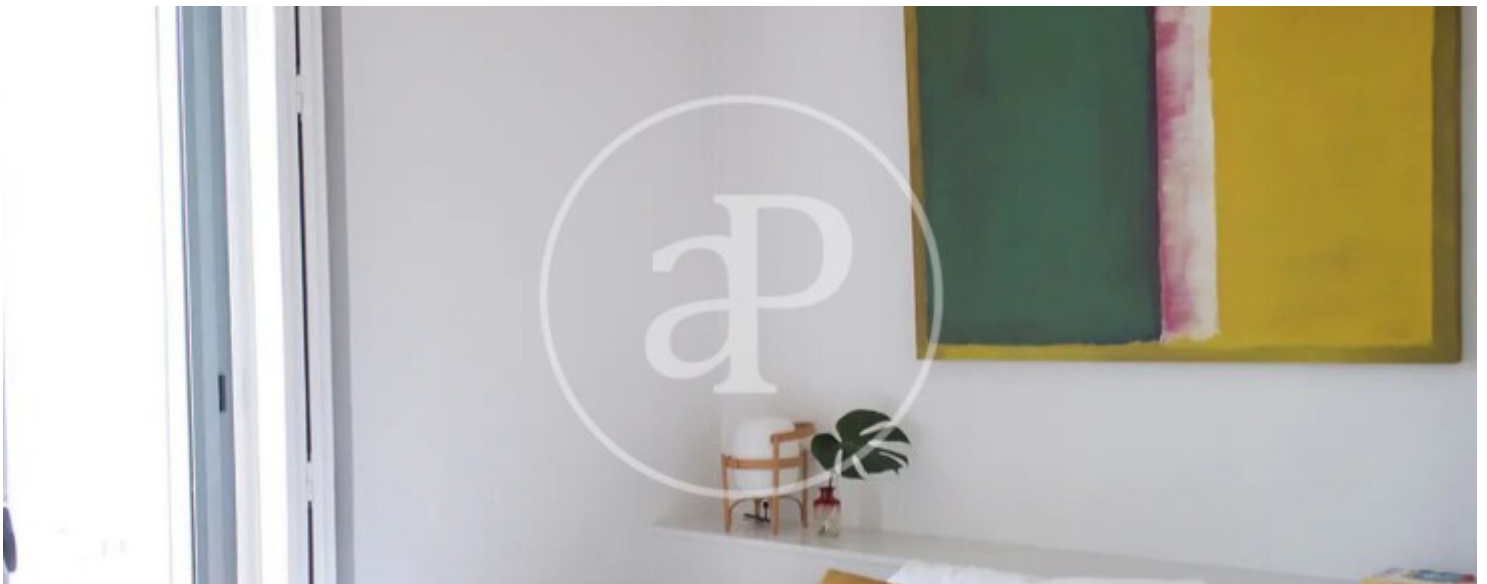

The elegance of the façade, with its distinctive lintels, corbels, and Modernist-inspired ironwork, offers a glimpse of what awaits inside. The entrance hall and staircase, adorned with painted decorative vegetal motifs, create a unique atmosphere that surprises with its beauty, sophistication, and timeless character. All residences in the building are equipped with a television, internet connection, central air conditioning, and a fully furnished and equipped kitchen. Appliances include a washing machine, dryer, refrigerator, oven, microwave, dishwasher, induction hob, as well as bed linen and towels, a complete set of kitchenware, and small appliances such as a toaster, coffee maker, Nespresso machine, blender, iron, and ironing board. In addition, utilities (electricity, water, and gas), access to the gym, internet connection, one hour of weekly cleaning service, and an on-site concierge service available five days a week are all included. Can you imagine living here?
