In the Salamanca district, one of the city's most commercially vibrant areas and one of Europe's most prestigious neighborhoods, we find this fantastic apartment with 124 m² built and 100 m² of usable space, located on the third floor. The building dates from 1989 and is very close to the National Archaeological Museum and the Puerta de Alcalá. The apartment faces the interior courtyard, but overlooks the building's courtyard, with a west-facing orientation, making it very bright. It features a large living-dining room with large windows and a fireplace, and a fully equipped kitchen with windows overlooking an east-facing courtyard. The property has two bedrooms, the master with an en-suite bathroom, and a second full bathroom serving the second bedroom and guests. The floors are hardwood, the heating is individual natural gas, and there is ducted air conditioning. It is rented furnished. The building has a doorman. Can you imagine living here?
