"An urban oasis in the heart of Pozuelo de Alarcón, where avant-garde architecture redefines the concept of family housing.

" In the center of Pozuelo de Alarcón, within a small and discreet urbanization, is this corner townhome of approximately 300 m<sup>2</sup>, fully rehabilitated and brand new, distributed with an extraordinary spatial intelligence. The house has been conceived as an exercise of contemporary design where matter, light and proportion dialogue with absolute coherence, offering a unique architectural experience from the very first moment. A home that transcends the traditional concept of an urban house to offer an almost sculptural experience, where every plan, every texture and every transition between interior and exterior have been carefully studied. The main floor is articulated as a large open space in which kitchen, dining room and living room coexist in continuity. The pavement, a sophisticated combination of natural stone and wood, extends towards the outside porch generating a unitary reading of the space. When the windows are completely opened, the garden becomes part of the interior and the architecture is diluted. The house breathes. From the kitchen itself, the space is projected towards an outdoor area...
